Meet Amelia

Set in the 1950s when Australia sent troupes to fight into the Korean War.

Amelia is from a big family in the city and Sydney NSW.

Amelia is 12 when her father and brother go away to fight in the Korean War.

Amelia cried with misery and sadness in her room. She heard footsteps walking towards the door but she didn't look up. Tomorrow was the day her father and brother were to go and fight in the Korean War. Her sister put her arms around her and cradled Amelia in her arms till she fell asleep breathing evenly. Today was the day her father and brother would leave. Amelia got up early in the morning and got ready for the day. She helped her maid with breakfast and made two going away cards. "Daddy, William come down!" Amelia called. I heard the grunt of my brother as he stepped in the kitchen. Dad followed after. They ate their breakfast quickly and grabbed their bags. Amelia hugged William tightly and planted a big sloppy kiss on his cheek. She did the same to her father and then gave both of them her special cards. They kissed us all then hurried out the door. I watched them ride out of my eyesight until I started to cry. This was going to be hard.
